COOK DID NOT FIND NORTH POLE.

Proof Declared to Be Without Any Value.

Brother of Perry's Rival Says Physician is in Norway and is Ready for Examination.

Copenhagen, Dec. 21.—The University of Copenhagen, the first institution of learning to recognize Dr. F. A. Cook as discoverer of the north pole declared solemnly today that the explorer has failed to establish a claim to the distinction upon which his high honors have been based.

The committee appointed by the university to examine Dr. Cook's record recently presented its report to the consistory of the university, which reviewed the deduction of the experts and discussed the findings from every standpoint. That both the committee and consistory were disappointed was soon known.

The consistory met today and adopted a written report to the effect that the alleged records submitted for examination by Dr. Cook had failed to prove his claim that he reached the north pole. The report declares that Cook's papers as presented to the consistory are without any value and that his report to the university is practically the same as that published in the New York Herald upon his return from his Arctic expedition.

Copies of his note books were submitted, but the committee says these observations, are but only the result thereof.

Accordingly, the committee concludes he affords no proof of having reached the pole.

NO SURPRISE IN NEW YORK.

New York, Dec. 21.—The news that the University of Copenhagen has declined to accept Dr. Cook's claim that he reached the north pole, came as no surprise to scientific circles here and to many of his friends.

Cook is now in Christiansand, Norway, according to William L. Cook, his brother. Mr. Cook said the doctor had greatly recovered from the nervous breakdown from which he suffered when leaving here and declared the explorer was ready to go to Copenhagen, to give the university further information concerning his claims.

"He fooled us all, from the King of Denmark down," was the exclamation of John R. Bradley, Dr. Cook's backer in his Arctic trip, when apprised of the news from Copenhagen, "and he fooled me with the rest," Bradley added.

"As a matter of fact," continued the sportsman, "I long ago lost all interest in Cook, the north pole and everything connected with it."

Charles Wake, Dr. Cook's closest personal friend and the only person besides the doctor's brother who knew the whereabouts of the explorer in the last few weeks, was dumbfounded when informed of the verdict reached by the University of Copenhagen.

"This is such a severe blow to me that I cannot now fully appreciate it," said Wake. "I had every confidence in Cook, yet I am well acquainted with the authorities in Copenhagen, and I know any verdict they reach is just and true."

Wake said Cook's wife is with him in Norway, but his children are here.

COOK IS IN NORWAY.

New York, Dec. 21.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, whose mysterious disappearance from the Gramatan Inn, Bronxville, on November 24, caused a sensation, is in Europe. This positive announcement is made by William L. Cooke, of No. 747 Bedford avenue Brooklyn, who received a letter from his brother Monday.

Without adopting a disguise, Dr. Cook left New York on the Corona of the Cunard Line, on Saturday, November 27, and arrived in Naples on December 11, two days after the affidavits of George H. Dunkle, an insurance agent, and Captain August W. Loose, a navigator, were printed in New York and London.

Although it was announced several hours before the vessel steamed out of port, that Mr. Cook would leave on the Corona, and notwithstanding the fact that more than a score of reporters searched the vessel for the explorer, Dr. Cook succeeded in getting out of New York and reaching Italy without being recognized.

He remained in Naples for several days and then left for Denmark, to remain in close call of the committee of scientists now engaged in examining his polar data.

When Dr. Cook decided to go abroad to await the decision of the University of Copenhagen he trusted his secret to only two persons, Mr. Cook and Charles Wake, manager of the Equitable Life Insurance Society, who for many years has been an intimate friend of the family. According to his brother, Dr. Cook believed that an announcement by Mr. Wake that he had gone into seclusion to gain a much needed rest would satisfy the public.

"My duty to the public has been fulfilled," Dr. Cook told his wife on the day that his north pole data was dispatched to Copenhagen, "and now I am going off where I will not be disturbed either by friend or foe. I must have rest. I do not want to see a newspaper or hear one word in this controversy, which has almost driven me to desperation."

NEW MOVE BY L. & N. R. R.

L. & N. Experimenting With High Speed Cars For Short Service.

The substitution of fast motor cars in place of the regular passenger cars between nearby points is a matter that has been under investigation by the L. & N. officials for some time. They have finally found a model car which they think will suit the purpose. It is a car about the size of a Pullman, with a powerful engine connected therewith, and arranged for a speed of ninety miles an hour on a straight and clear track. A model of this car passed South on last week in charge of T. H. Curtis, superintendent of machinery for the L. & N. and Clark Ray, general foreman, both of Louisville. It is said that as soon as passenger trains commenced running regularly on the new Madisonville, Hartford & Eastern railroad the L. & N. will put on this motor car service, to make four round trips between Livermore and Drakesboro. It is the intention to turn all L. & N. passengers to Louisville and the West over to the new M. H. & E. road in place of carrying them to Bowling Green or Guthrie via Russellville, his arrangement will be of great benefit to the people of this vicinity, especially if a proper schedule is arranged.—Muhlenburg Argus.

Long Jury of Night Rider Case.

Union City, Tenn., Dec. 21.—The jury in the case of the State vs. Barrett Johnson and Arthur Clear, alleged leaders of the Reelfoot Lake light-rider band, and charged with the murder of Capt. Quentin Rankin, led into Judge Jones' courtroom on to-day and reported that they could not possibly agree on a verdict.

The jury stood ten to two in favor of conviction. Jurors Farley and Batts voting out to the last for the defendants. Each juror was polled and expressed his conviction that no verdict could be arrived at among the present members.

Judge Jones then discharged the jury and held the two defendants on their present bonds of $20,000 each, and the case was continued.

It is generally conceded here that it will not be possible to secure another jury to try the two defendants in this county. An effort will, however, be made at the next session of the Legislature to secure an act to change the county lines of Obion and Lake in order to locate the scene of the killing of Capt. Rankin in the latter county, thus changing the venue and making the selection of a jury possible.

It is announced that no further trial of indicted nightriders will be entered into at the present term of court.

NO SPECIAL MESSAGES NOW.

Porto Rico and Philippines will be Considered.

Needs of Navy Absorbing Attention of Senator Hale of Maine.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21.—The President has definitely decided that it will be impossible for him to complete any of the special messages which he purposes sending to Congress before the holiday recess. He has, moreover, determined to submit a special message on the needs of Porto Rico and the Philippines and is seriously considering writing another on the affairs of the District of Columbia. In his message on the Insular possessions he will urge that citizenship be conferred on the residents of Porto Rico and the establishment of a central health bureau for the island and he will ask authority to create a civil pension list for the Philippines to be met out of the revenues of the islands. If he finally decides to discuss District of Columbia affairs in a special message he will doubtless urge the institution of legal proceedings with a view to testing the constitutionality of the act of Congress by which that part of the district on the south side of the Potomac was ceded to Virginia. Mr. Taft holds the view that the law was unconstitutional and that the territory which now forms Alexandria County, Va., is legally still a part of the District.

The Smithsonian Institution has placed on exhibition the trophies obtained by the Roosevelt expedition in South Africa. This collection is declared by the regents and by scientists connected with the institution to be the finest it has ever received. It includes 243 specimens of large mammals, 1,500 of small mammals, 1,356 birds and something over 2,500 sheets of plants. There are, moreover, a number of human skulls picked up along the line of an old slave train which constitute a valuable contribution to the anthropological division. The receipt of this collection is most gratifying to the attaches of the Institution especially as it has entailed no expense, the funds being raised by private contribution.

Two old oil paintings have been inspiring patriotism from the walls of the Senate corridor for years. One of Thomas Jefferson, with austere brow has furnished an excellent example to present day statesmen. The other is of Patrick Henry, the Virginia orator, who has numerous imitators as the Congressional Record will testify. For years these paintings have hung undisturbed with a small gold inscription under each giving the name of the original. A day or two ago Eugene W. Chafin, former prohibition candidate for president, was admitted to practice before the Supreme Court and while walking through the Capitol he stopped before the picture marked with the name of Jefferson. "That is not Thomas Jefferson," Mr. Chafin remarked to a friend, "Or, if it is the years have made a decided change in him." He then turned to the picture of Patrick Henry. And that certainly is not Patrick Henry declared Mr. Chafin with vehemence. He was puzzled. In a moment he discovered that Henry's name was under Jefferson's portrait and vice versa.

He immediately notified the superintendent of the Capitol and the mistake was rectified. They are still wondering at the Capitol what errors and other prohibitionist might discover. Senator Hale, who is earnestly opposed to authorizing two new battleships and a collier or a repair ship at this session of Congress, has called attention to one of the most serious needs of the Navy a material increase in the personnel. Captain Usher, Acting Chief of the Bureau of Navigation, sent to the Naval Committee of Congress only a few days ago an earnest recommendation that provision be made for two thousand additional enlisted men and Mr. Hale believes that this increase is far more important than an increase in ships. Some conception of the existing situation may be gained from the fact that among the three cruisers, the St. Louis, the Milwaukee and the Charleston, all on the Pacific, there is only one full and two reserve crews. These vessels require a crew of 650 men each but when one of them goes into commission it is necessary to take out the other two, leaving on each ship a reserve crew of 130 men.

A Correction.

Our attention has been called to the fact that in our report of the sale of the Ohio county tobacco to Mr. Nave by reason of a typographical error one sucker tobacco from 22 to 24 inches in length which was sold at 6cts. per pound was omitted from the published contract. In fact we were slightly criticised by the chairman of the Finance Committee for publishing the contract at all, but as it affects no less than one thousand Ohio county people, we felt that their interests required its being given to them and the public. For the benefit of everyone interested we reproduce the paragraph with reference to one sucker, which is as follows:

Nave agrees to take one sucker tobacco contracted by said committee at the following prices: Leaf and lugs 26 inches and upwards in length at eight cents per pound, leaf and lugs 24 to 26 inches in length at seven cents per pound, leaf and lugs 22 to 24 inches in length at six cents per pound, leaf and lugs 19 to 22 inches in length at five cents per pound. All trash at three cents per pound and any leaf and lugs not 19 inches in length at trash price of three cents per pound.

TOBACCO DELIVERIES SLOW.

One Hundred Loads Arrived Monday.

Samples, Too Good for Crop—Prices Being Paid very Unsatisfactory—Going Elsewhere.

Monday was a busy day in Hartford in tobacco circles. It was the day set for beginning the delivery of tobacco under the present contract for the A. S. of E. pool of Ohio county. When nightfall came an even hundred loads of the weed had arrived here. This was more than could be properly taken care of at the big warehouse at the foot of Center street, and some of it was hauled into livery stables, while a number of loads stood in the warehouse yard all night.

The work of receiving and grading was at once begun. It was impossible to receive the tobacco as fast as it was brought in and only 22 loads passed through the graders' hands Monday. The graders are Messrs. Rousseau Weller and J. F. Vickers, the former acting for the farmers and the latter for the company who purchased the pool, represented by Mr. J. H. Nave.

There was only one load of tobacco that came near the top price of $9 to $5 for leaf and lugs and $3 for trash, as agreed on at the recent deal negotiated. Mr. William Lake came nearest reaching the mark. He got $9, $8.50 and $3. The general average was about $5. The season being rather dry, the weed did not show up to the best advantage, although there was much of good quality in evidence. It is only fair to state, however, that the grading was not altogether satisfactory to the farmers. There was considerable complaint at the rating accorded some of the weed. But the delivery went steadily on, and it was evident that the tobacco growers had decided to make the best of it. A portion of the tobacco was not first-class and this of course could not be expected to fetch the best price. Cash drafts on a Louisville bank were issued as payment.

Many of the growers are greatly dissatisfied with the price received for their tobacco. They say that the samples are not representative of the present crop at all, being much better than any tobacco grown in Ohio county this year, then too it is the belief of the growers that the people who bought the tobacco desire to create as much dissatisfaction as possible, thereby rendering it more difficult to pool next year's crop and eventually they hope to buy their tobacco as they did years ago at auction and for prices they paid then.

A permanent close down has been narrowly averted several times since the receiving began Monday morning and it is reported that many growers who had brought their tobacco here have taken it back home or to other points of delivery. Taking it all in all it is the general sentiment of those who have heard the matter discussed among the growers that this is the most unsatisfactory sale and attempted delivery that has been made since the pooling plan was inaugurated.

Receiving has been unusually slow occasioned partly by insufficient force to handle the tobacco, only one door being used, and partly because of the numerous contentions which arise between the grader for the people and the grader for the purchasing company and the general dissatisfaction occasioned by the very low prices which the farmers are getting for their tobacco.

MAY REQUIRE SHORT SKIRTS

To Be Worn in The Louisville Theaters in Near Future.

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 20.—Believing that the best interests of the public would be subserved, Col. Robert J. Tilford, building inspector, is said to be looking for some member of the general council who has the temerity to introduce an ordinance regulating the length of skirts worn in the theaters of Louisville.

Col. Tilford says that grave danger lies in the wearing of long skirts and trains and that he would have a law passed forbidding any to be of greater length than four inches above the ground.

It is hardly probable, however, that any member of the council can be found who would take the chance of gaining eternal feminine hatred by the introduction of the ordinance.

The proprietors of this paper desire to place it upon a cash basis by the first of January 1910. We have been carrying many subscribers for years without any pay whatever for their subscriptions. No other business enterprise would do this and it is not right that we should longer continue this policy. It has grown to be a custom of country newspapers to continue sending the publication to subscribers until it is ordered stopped or amount delinquent is paid, and subscribers to this class of papers have grown to expect this kind of treatment. Formerly it did not cost so much to publish a country newspaper, but now with the increase in wages and cost of paper and all the materials which enter into the make up of a modern newspaper, the loss to the publication of only a limited number of delinquent subscriptions takes away all the profit which should be earned by those who make the investment and furnish the hard work necessary to sustain a country newspaper. Besides, the postoffice regulations now prohibit sending of this class of mail to persons who are as much as one year in arrears. We do not expect to make this change without giving through notice to our readers and those of our subscribers who receive the paper through the postoffices of Nuckolls, Central City, Paradise, Elizabethtown, Grenville, Lexington, South Carrollton, Bowling Green, Point Pleasant, Linton, Ind., Herrin, Ill., Utica, Livermore, Vanzant, Simmons, Leitchfield, Ceralvo, Wysox, Chicago, Ill., Matanzas, Rochester, Earllington, Select, Borah, can learn by the label on their papers and if shown in arrears will take notice that after January 3, 1910, unless renewed by the payment of arrears and one year in advance, they will be discontinued.

For every dot shown on the above map, a student-teacher has entered the State Normal at Bowling Green since January 22, 1907. To one student is counted twice. The dots also show the number of students from each county. Multiply the number of dots representing the number of Student-Teachers who have graduated from each county, by 76, the average number of students in each school district, and then draw your own conclusions as to the value of the educational service the Western Normal is rendering the Commonwealth of Kentucky. A conservative estimate shows that 150,000 different children of Kentucky have been taught, or are now being taught, by the Student-Teachers who have graduated the Western Normal since it was formally launched as a State Institution, January 23, 1907, a little more than two and one-half year ago. Fully eighty-8 (80 per cent) of these children live in the rural districts of Kentucky. A glance at the map will convince anyone that the school is reaching the masses. Kentucky is to be congratulated upon the establishment of this great institution that is making inroads in the interest of the boys and girls of Kentucky. It is doing a great work for Western Kentucky and richly deserves the warm support of the ablest of our Commonwealth.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

We are authorized to announce Hon. Ben Johnson a candidate for re-election to the office of Representative in Congress from the Fourth Kentucky District, subject to the Democratic primary election to be held March 12, 1910.

Do the people rule? The next few years will tell.

The sugar Trust scales are beginning to fall from the country's eyes.

Only the "regulars" are to be invited to the White House receptions this year.

In dealing with South and Central American Republics the fine Italian hand of Elihu Root was about the finest ever.

We would like very much to see the Tobacco Trust get into the same sweet mess which has overtaken the Sugar Trust.

The house of Lords has been practically abolished by everybody on earth except the English people. They have the last say.

Symptoms of "bucking" have already been aroused by Mr. Bryan's plan to hitch the Democratic donkey to a water wagon.

Senator Money has been chosen as minority leader by the Democrats in the Senate. Is this a reproduction of the old adage that "Money" talks?

Dr. Cook seems to have neglected to push the lecture end of it far enough and has thereby saved the people much embarrassment and good many five and ten dollar coupons.

The Republican extends to all its readers Christmas greetings, wishing them a merry time during the holidays. It is thankful for the patronage extended to us during the past year and hopes to retain all of its old friends and make many new ones during the coming year.

The current issue of the Equity Farm Journal is a hummer, and under its new management gives promise of surpassing anything which has been attempted in the way of an official organ of the A. S. of E. It should be in the hands of every farmer in the United States.

It is announced by the State Anti-Saloon League that no effort will be made by the present Legislature to secure a vote on the question of state wide prohibition. The State Anti Saloon League has doubtless examined into the present overwhelming Democratic Legislature pretty thoroughly and found that it would be time wasted. However an effort will be made to pass an unrestricted County Unit Bill and we predict that it will be impossible to do this with the present Legislature.

The decision handed down by Judge O'Rear in the Court of Appeals one day last week reversing Judge Benton of the Clark Circuit Court in his decision to place the Burley Tobacco Association in the hands of a receiver will be hailed with delight by all lovers of justice in Kentucky. The efforts of the trust to use the courts and other departments of the State Government to carry out its design, is an outrage upon decency which should be frowned upon by every citizen of the commonwealth, regardless of whether he is a farmer or engaged in some other occupation. The fact that the decision of the Court of Appeals was unanimous in this case should be a hint to the American Tobacco Company that it has at last met with one governmental force in the State which it cannot control.

We trust that the effort to induce Congress to pass a Civil Pension bill will utterly fail. This to our mind is the most flagrant piece of injustice ever attempted to be fastened upon the people of any free government. The idea of giving a man a position in the service of the government for life at a salary, often far in excess of what he could earn, or what his fellow men are earning in other walks of life at shorter hours and then compelling his fellow men through the National government to pay him a pension when he is too old to work, would seem to be injustice personified. When this matter was first talked of we thought it was simply a joke. Why not pension all ex-members of Congress, and all other officers for the matter of that. Where would this thing end and what would become of the "mud sills" any way?

The efforts of certain persons to establish a Wool Growers Association for Kentucky, after the American Society of Equity had occupied the field and successfully pooled for two years, instead of joining forces with the parent organization, is beyond our comprehension. The present State Wool Growers' Association, under the American Society of Equity has for its President Hon. Ben Watson of Webster county and for Secretary, Mr. Silas L. Stevens, of Ohio county. No better men could be selected for these places and no truer friends of Equity could be placed on guard. The truth is it looks to us as though central Kentucky did not consider men west of Louisville capable of managing an organization of this kind, or they desire to be the entire show, and if not in the lead will refuse to play. This has been demonstrated to some extent in the tobacco organizations, but there is less excuse for it on wool than almost any other product. They do produce a peculiar type of tobacco in Central Kentucky, but it seems to us that they have no excuse for going it alone on the wool question. We trust the present officers of the only wool growers association which is true and loyal to the American Society of Equity, will stand firm and maintain their own organization, at the same time inviting wool growers of central Kentucky to join with them in their efforts for better prices.

Hunting Accident.

While out hunting last Thursday, Mr. S. M. Dexter, of Centertown, met with quite a severe accident. He and Miss Margaret Baker were taking a few shots at rabbits, when the young lady's gun—a small 22-caliber rifle—was accidentally discharged and being pointed in the direction of Mr. Dexter, the bullet struck him in the small part of his back, inflicting a rather painful though not dangerous wound. He is getting along all right and will soon recover.

WHITESVILLE.

Dec. 23.—Berry Evans returned Saturday from Only, Tenn. where he has been employed for the past few months in the lumber business.

Rollie Godsey, Fordsville, was in this town on business yesterday. Loyd Holland who for sometime has been book keeping at Owensboro has purchased half interest in Robert Hisk's shop.

This town has been crowded with tobacco for the last two or three weeks. There has been already near a million pounds delivered. There has been a great deal of dissatisfaction over the prices received but no particular trouble has yet arisen.

Ivo Howard, who for the past five months has been in school at Bowling Green returned to his home near Ralph last week.

Nora and Clyde Taylor visited Miss Pearl Howard, Ralph last Saturday night and Sunday.

Mrs. Livia Cecil and Mr. James Wheatley are going to move into their new store this week.

There have been two mad dogs in our vicinity recently and several dogs were bitten which makes the dog question very important at present and a number of suspected canines have been killed.

The death rate in our immediate vicinity is decreasing. The doctors horses are getting fat and the undertakers are seriously affected with the "blues."

Equity Locals Notice.

Dec. 19, 1909.—I wish to call your attention to the meeting of the Green River District A. S. of E. at Hartford, first Thursday in January 1910 and we want to make this one of the most profitable meetings in the history of the District. The change in the by-laws is as follows: "One delegate from each local and one for every fifty members in your county."

So get your local together and elect one from your local and where your county union meets select one for every fifty members for your county. If your county doesn't meet, let the County President by the assistance of the County Secretary appoint them. Let no county or local fail to have a full representation and make this a meeting to be remembered. I wish to say further that the prospect for Equity is brighter today than ever before. As far as I can hear they are sending in word that they are coming back home to old Equity. I also wish today that the very tobacco that was turned down, the one sucker, the Bowling Green District sold their pool for the same price we sold our tobacco for. The Indiana people sold their tobacco for more than we did, they got $4 for their trash $8.50 for top leaf. The dollar on all the trash will over balance fifty cents on what little extra leaf they have, so let every body get busy and rally for Equity. I see Livermore local has received ten new members at one meeting. Hurrah for Livermore, she knows how to do things. We have set January 1st at one o'clock p. m. for pay day. In 1908 we saved thirteen members, 1909 we saved forty even, in 1910 it will be everybody. As there is some very important business to come before the meeting I earnestly request a full delegation from every county in the District. Don't forget the resolution that were passed at our last meeting in regard to live stock that was to be brought up at this meeting. Study over the burley situation, they are doing nothing for us. Are we under obligations to them? I think not. Why? Well I will tell you why. In the first place they made three failures in succession in controlling the price on their tobacco before Equity was born and then, well they sent for our men to come to their assistance. We sent our best men up there, blazed out the road for them, taught them the lesson and won the victory and then they pulled off, turned their back on us paid no dues, nor nothing, and the way I see things we are under no obligations whatever to cut out the burley of our district for their sake.

We are just simply tired of going to County Unions, State and National Unions, paying out money, losing our time making hydraulic Rams of the best men in our district butting our can windows and such things, we are tired of such things ourselves and if the Burley District wants to help them let them get right up on the roof with us and we will stay with them until Gabriel blows his trumpet. One more thing I wish to mention and that is this, marketing our small produce. Study upon some plan whereby we can make it profitable to the to the union and it will be great help to our members. Study over these matters and come to Hartford with your hat straight on a level head ready for business.

Charged With Forgery.

Constable Newt. R. Baize, of Fordsville, arrived in Hartford yesterday, having in charge young Hubert Quinn, of Reynolds, charged with forgery. Quinn was arrested in Owensboro. He is only about fourteen years old. The forged check which he is accused of writing was for $50, was drawn in the name of Cleve Loyd, of Fordsville, and was upon the Bank of Fordsville. It seems that the check was drawn over six months ago but was not detected on account of the fact that Loyd had not in that length of time had his bank book audited and consequently he had not discovered the discrepancy in his bank account.

The Sunday School of the Methodist Church will have their annual Christmas tree at the church tonight—Christmas Eve. They have invited other churches and those who wish to use the privilege, to unite with them. The Baptist Sunday School will entertain Santa Claus at their church also on Christmas Eve. These festivities will, as usual, afford the little folks and many others much pleasure.

Choosing a Christmas Present.

When you make a present of a periodical to a friend or family you are really selecting a companion to influence them for good or ill during a whole year. If the acquaintances of your sons and daughters were to talk to them aloud as some periodicals talk to them silently, how quickly you would forbid the companionship! In the one case as in the other, the best course is to supplant the injurious with something equally attractive and at the same time "worth while." A food can be wholesome and utterly distasteful. Reading can be made so, too. But The Youth's Companion not only nourishes the mind, but delights it, just like that ideal human associate whom you would choose. The Youth's Companion fills that place now in more than a half million homes. Can you not think of another family in which it is not now known where it would be joyfully welcomed?

If the $1.75 for the 1910 Volume is sent now, the new subscriber will be entitled to all the remaining issues of 1909; also The Companion's "Venetian" Calendar for 1910, lithographed in thirteen colors and gold.

To Men Who Know

It is easy for us to sell our Shoes. Every one of our customers who has been buying from us, who observes anything at all, knows that our Shoes wear better than other makes. It is a simple matter to make a statement. It is harder to prove it. But we have the proof. Our goods prove the statement. We make good. Ask one who has been buying from us. There are a number of reasons, none of which are interesting to the average buyer, but the goods speak for themselves. Do not take our word—let us prove it. If you did not know, it pays to depend on

Woman's Power

Over Man

Woman's most glorious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still loves on, no one in the wide world can know the heart agony she endures. The woman who suffers from weakness and derangement of her special womanly organism soon loses the power to sway the heart of a man. Her general health suffers and she loses her good looks, her attractiveness, her amiability and her power and prestige as a woman. Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed for and cured many thousands of women. He has devised a successful remedy for woman's ailments. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a positive specific for the weaknesses and disorders peculiar to women. It purifies, regulates, strengthens and heals. Medicine dealers sell it. No honest dealer will advise you to accept a substitute in order to make a little larger profit.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG, SICK WOMEN WELL.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and strengthen Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

The highest medical authority on foods,

Sir James Crichton Browne, LL.D.—F.R.S. of London,

Quaker Oats

gives the best reasons for eating more

In an article published in the Youth's Companion of September 23rd, 1909, Dr. Browne, the great medical authority on foods, says, about brain and muscle building—

"There is one kind of food that seems to me of marked value as a food to the brain and to the whole body throughout childhood and adolescence (youth), and that is oatmeal."

"Oats are the most nutritious of all the cereals, being richer in fats, organic phosphorus and lecithins."

He says oatmeal is gaining ground with the well-to-do of Great Britain. He speaks of it as the mainstay of the Scottish laborer's diet and says it produces a big-boned, well-developed, mentally energetic race. His experiments prove that good oatmeal such as Quaker Oats not only furnishes the best food for the human being, but eating it strengthens and enlarges the thyroid gland—this gland is intimately connected with the nourishing processes of the body.

In conclusion he says—

"It seems probable therefore that the bulk and brawniness of the Northerners (meaning the Scotch) has been in some measure due to the stimulation of the thyroid gland by oatmeal porridge in childhood."

The Scotch eat Quaker Oats because it is the best of all oat-meals.

A PASSING GLEAM came o'er us thrown,
It glimmers like a vision, but is gone.
What do we mortal mortals gain?
A drop of pleasure in a sea of pain?
Who breathes must suffer, and who thinks must mourn,
The human race are sons of sorrow born.
Born to be ploughed with years, and sown with cares,
Nursed with vain hope, and fed with doubtful fears.
Tired of beliefs, we dread to live without,
Yet who knows most, the more he knows to doubt.
Nor is a true soul ever born for naught,
Yet millions never think a noble thought.
Tis not in mortals to command success,
And endless toil brings naught but bitterness.
To-morrow's sun to thee may never rise,
The flower that smiles to-day to-morrow dies.
Alas, what stay is there in human state?
Man yields to custom, as he bows to fate.
Year chases year, decay pursues decay,
Swift to its close ebbs out life's little day.
AND INTO LIGHT
Hail! Sacred dawn of glorious liberty,
Heaven's morning breaks, and earth's vain shadows flee,
This day is born a savior, Christ the Lord,
And man redeemed to Paradise restored.
Oh, holy trust! Oh, endless sense of rest!
Transcendent born to weary hearts oppressed,
Enriching all the common things of life,
Our balm in sorrow, and our stay in strife.
Hope springs eternal in the human breast,
And faith reveals a life divinely blest.
Good actions crown themselves with lasting days,
And God fulfills Himself in many ways.
Time well employed is Satan's deadliest foe,
And happiness oft comes from seeming woe.
Life's mysteries deep hid, elude our sight,
One truth is clear, whatever is, is right.
Something remains for us to do or dare,
Emboldened Faith will counteract despair.
Life is not shadow but a promise given,
Of change from woe to joy, from earth to Heaven.

Christmas at Sea

By Admiral Bob Evans

"N Christmas morning," said Admiral Evans (Fighting Bob), "I thank God that he made three times as much water as land."

"Every old seadog will join me in this. The sea is his home; he loves it as the farmer loves his broad acres. Apart from it he is restless and dissatisfied, but with a voyage ahead of him he is as happy as a clam at high tide. No true sailor would exchange Christmas at sea for one on shore. It would be like Thanksgiving dinner without the turkey."

"Of all the Christmases spent at sea the one that rises before me most vividly is that of 1865, when the federal army and the gunboat fleet were trying to capture Fort Fisher. The only presents we received, and they came fast and furious, were solid shot and shell from the guns of the enemy. But this didn't destroy our sense of humor. The boys would write on each solid shot or shell before placing it in the gun, 'presented by,' and add the name of the vessel from which it happened to be fired. Mighty few hurled at the fort that day lacked this Christmas greeting. All the gunners caught the spirit of the grim jest, for the fighting line is no place for serious faces."

"Despite the excitement of the fierce combat we managed to have the mastsheads of all the ships trimmed with Christmas green, even though the sailors had to risk their lives in going ashore to get them, and you may be assured the sentiment of the day was not wasted."

"Last year Santa Claus followed our fleet of 16 vessels. He anticipated our 12,000-mile voyage and furnished us in advance with the pick of his best. On board the supply vessels when we sailed from Hampton roads were thousands of packages containing every imaginable Christmas gift, from a whiskey flask to a smoking jacket, each package labeled, 'Don't open until Christmas.'"

"With those gifts he sent the bands of yards of bunting to decorate the mastsheads of the battleships. It would be difficult to imagine a more beautiful sight than these ships lined up Christmas morning with the sails up, looking out the Christmas trim with as much zest as the small boy displays when he lights the candles on his Christmas tree.

"Then comes the opening of the Christmas packages. This is always a gala occasion. Not a man on board would dare ignore the instruction any more than he would think of disobeying his superior officer. It has become custom through years of faithful observance. Always a bottle of wine is broken in christening these tokens from the loved ones at home."

"If I hadn't been a lieutenant myself I wouldn't dare give away official secrets. 'Last year we practically had two Christmases. We received our first mail at Trinidad, West Indies, some time Christmas week and delayed Christmas mail reached us at Callao, when the vessels were approaching their own country on the western side."

"No nation provides more plentifully for the Christmas cheer of its sailors than does Uncle Sam. Each of the battleship crews has a dinner of roast turkey, plum pudding, pumpkin pie and all the trimmings which go with it. The men are served in messes of 20 at 12 a clock and each man is allowed one snifter of grog as an appetizer, in celebration of the occasion."

"The officers dine at six o'clock, and, as is the custom when spending the holiday at sea, are guests of the commanding officer."

Christmas Musings.
There are warmer hand-shakings on this night, wrote Alexander Smith, than during the bypast 12 months. Friend lives in the mind of friend. There is more charity at this time than at any other. Poverty and scanty clothing, and fireless grates come home to the bosoms of the rich and they give of their abundance. The very redbreast of the woods enjoys his Christmas feast. Good feeling incarnates itself in plum pudding. The Master's word, "The poor ye have always with you," wear at this time a deep significance. For at least one night on each year over all Christendom there is brotherhood. And good men, sitting amongst their families, or by a solitary fire like me, when they remember the light that shone over the poor clowns huddling on the Bethlehem plains 1,800 years ago, the apparition of shining angels overhead, the song, "Peace on earth and good-will towards men," which for the first time hallowed the midnight air—pray for that strain's fulfillment, that little strife may vex the nation no more, that not only Christmas, but the year round, shall be a time when, owning one another as brothers,

BEFORE the fading embers of a grate fire, Parrish Morton sat alone. Outside, the snow was falling in nebulous, transcendent beauty, clinging to the coats of merry makers on their way to Christmas eve festivities and swathing all in a filmy scarf of white. Chimes of distant bells proclaiming "Peace on earth, good will to men," distilled their euphony across the glinting night—but Parrish, in the brooding shadows of his bachelor home, paid no heed. What did Christmas mean to him—to him whom the God of Plenty had given money and fame, the plaudits of his fellows, and all else loved by a man with but the frost-marks of time at his temple—and having given these, had passed to him the sparkling shell of the champagne of love only to dash it with a leer of derision at his feet? Of what use were the riches and the approval of the world? How could vain pomp and popular praise make up for the loss of that which every good man craves—love, a pure woman and the thousand incentives that have their awakening beside the towhead's crib and in that holy hour when tousled curls lay lightly on a father's breast?

And all the Christmases ever to come! How cheerless and how lonely they would be with Verona gone—Verona who had come to him from the death-bed of a strangely beautiful woman in New Mexico.

He was searching for color in the hills when he stumbled upon the scene—the stranded wagon in the foothills, the mother upon whose face was the pallor of death, the stunned, half-realizing child with the glorious golden hair and the lips like twin cherries. With her last breath the grief-stricken mother told brokenly of a husband who had died en route, of their efforts to make Los Vegas, how the son had gone on ahead for the doctor, and how in despair she had waited and waited his return. That night just as the great, pitiless blackness threw its mourning robe across the canyon, the woman died!

Their Lips Met in a Plighting Kiss.

How vividly it all came back to Parrish Morton now as he buried his face in his hands before the crackling embers of the lingering fire! How Verona clung to him in her terror and sobbed for her mother, sobbed for her father and her brother! Was ever a child so bereft, so desolate?

And he had taken her home with him and placed her in the hands of his capable housekeeper and as time passed and no record of her kin could be found, he had advanced her into his heart—into the most sacred corner of his great heart—and watched her grow into a beautiful maturity, a full blown rose of womanhood with eyes like the depths of quiet brooks and the face of an angel, with red lips ruddier still and tantalizingly sweet!

And then the blow fell! The realization that he loved her and that he, her protector, must preserve her against that love, for she was but 17 and he was 33, then—and he had promised her mother out in the New Mexican foothills that he would care for her and keep her from the pitfalls as best he could!

Ah, how lonely the place was when he had sent her away to school, to a distant school where he might not have to endure the pain of seeing her often—and how she had looked into his eyes at parting with the half pleading, half understanding eyes of a young rabbit suddenly met, face to face in some leafstrewn hollow in the autumn woods!

He had kissed her in his old, paternal way and her heart aggrieved had sent subtle glances of bewilderment to flash and play within those orbs whose depths he dared not sound!

And to avoid meeting her, he had gone on a distant mission, kept himself aloof for two years, while absence made the heart grow fonder and the memory of her thrilled him as the fingers of some sweet angel touched his forehead. And now upon his return, she had written him that she had made plans for Christmas that might detain her at Sussex, but she wished him a very merry Christmas, wished that he might find his heart filled with joy at again being beneath the old roof-tree, wished that this Christmas might be the happiest of all the Christmases he had ever experienced, and lastly assured him that she was sending him a memento of the season, which she hoped he would cherish and love for her sake.

Parrish Morton repeated the words sadly: "For her sake! Ah, for her sake!"

If she but knew what he would do for her sake, were it possible! But, no, she was not for him. The violet and the cosmos are incongruous. Youth and late summer are not born to trip hand in hand across the fields Elysian into Agapemone.

The bell rang sharply. He heard Phipps' soft tread upon the stairs, and listened. Yes, it was she. There was no mistaking the rippling cadence of that sweet-throated bird of passage. Turning, he pressed a button and the room was sparkling with light. At the top of the stair he stood hesitating, striving to gain control of himself. At the foot, she paused, made him a mock "courtesy" and held out her arms: "Oh, Par, dear old Par, I have brought you your Christmas present instead!"

The attitude, the look in her eyes, the irresistible enchantment of her beauty flooded him with impelling power. What did she mean? Was it herself she was offering? For a brief moment he stood away from the mighty impulse within him. Standing stupefied there, he remembered, as she bounded toward him! He must not—he could not—

And then, as he was about to sweep aside all the positiveness of his duty, all the negatives and forbearances and give free impulse to his heart, there came a step behind her. She heard and turning as she was about to enter the yearning haven of his eager arms, cried:

"Oh, pardon me, Mr. Morton, let me introduce Marshall Marriott. He—"

Suddenly the stairs went black before him. He realized now! She was bringing him a Christmas surprise, the man she loved, the—

Somehow he managed to greet the stalwart young fellow with the frank eyes. In a maze of conflicting pain and surprise he did the duties of a host, and when Verona and her escort had been shown to their rooms to dress, he slipped into the den and cast himself into the great arm chair before the pulseless coils of the fireplace.

"Lost! Lost!" kept ringing in his ears, and with a groan of anguish he once more buried his face in his hands and gave way to a man's grief. In vain he tried to reason with himself that it were better so. He should not have expected or even dared to think it might have been otherwise. He was too old for her. She was sunshine, he was the somber cloud—but, oh, how he loved her! And for the moment he had thought she meant to give herself. The misery of it all! The heartache of it!

Suddenly, behind him he heard a rustle, the frou-frou of a woman's gown, and over the side of his great chair a warm arm stole softly against his neck.

"Oh, Par, what is it, dear? What have I done? What—"

Instinctively in the darkness he felt the frightened rabbit look, the appealing gaze. Summoning all his reserve strength, he said, with scarcely a tremor in his voice:

"Nothing dear, nothing to offend. I am glad—glad for you, if he is worthy, if—"

"If—if—he is worthy—oh, you goose, I see it all now!" In a flash she threw her arms about his neck. Her face was close to his. How soft and warm and soothing her flesh was! "He—he is my brother, lost that day in the foothills of New Mexico. I—I have just found him. I—thought you would be glad—I wanted to surprise you—I—I don't you want your Christmas present?" In desperation.

With a mighty heart throb he reached about and drew her to him. Tenderly, tremblingly he clasped his arms about her and as their lips met in a plighting kiss, a tiny flame springing as from the heart of an ash-covered sapphire, flamed up from the grate and sent the shadows scurrying. Phipps coming to announce dinner, stood transfixed. Then, a broad grin upon his face, he slipped softly away chortling to his utmost self:

"Lawd! Lawd! Dere sure am gwine t' be a weddin' in this year house afore another Christmas eve! Yaa'!"

A Quickly-Made Present.

Most women know what it is to be short of a present on the last day or so before Christmas. If one has plenty of money to go out and buy a gift this need cause little worry, otherwise quickly-made gifts are in order.

One that can be turned out in a few minutes is one of the new hairpin cases. This is made of the fiber that is used in women's artificial pompadours, of a silvery white color.

The Rose of Jericho.

We are told that the rose of Jericho, which is also called Mary's rose, sprang up along the path of the Holy Family after they left Bethlehem, and blossomed brightly wherever they rested. This flower which bloomed at the birth of Christ showed its sympathy by closing at his crucifixion, only to open again at his resurrection.

A Christmas Thought.

So may each year be happier than the last, and not one meanest brother or sister debarred of his share of the great Creator's good gifts!—Charles Dickens.

What Santa Brought

Got the greatest Christmas gift a feller ever seen!
Haven't tickled since the day I was seventeen
When I got my long pants suit an' strutted round the town
Lord! it among th' boys that looked on with a frown—
'Twasn't in a stockin' an' it wasn't on a tree,
But it was a dandy gift that Santa brought to me!

Give you twenty guesses, an' you couldn't guess it right—
Bet you couldn't guess it if you tried from now to night!
Come on Christmas morning, I was waitin' in the hall—
Couldn't shet my eyes in sleep since Christmas Eve at all.
Lord! I had the figgers like I use to long ago
When I'd watch for Santa in the boy-days, don't you know!

No, it wasn't slippers, nor an auto, nor a life—
'Tisn't any jimcrack thing that you can go an' buy!
Ain't another like it in the whole endurin' earth!
What? Why, I can't tell you how much money it is worth.
Just the thing I wanted, an' I simply want to say
It's the finest present ever come on Christmas day.

Doctor dipped to me an' he says: "I wish you joy!
It's a Christmas baby—you're the daddy of a boy!"
Now ain't that a present! Can you beat it in your life?
Isn't this a Christmas Day for me an' boy an' wife?
Bet the angels left him when they come to sing again
In their joyful chorus tellin' of good will to men.

Pudgy-wudgy baby, just a roly-poly tike
With a way of lookin' right straight at you, lovin' like
Say! He held my finger in his little velvet hand
With a grip o' goodness—But how can you understand?
If you ain't been through it you can't know just what I mean—
Got the greatest Christmas gift a feller ever seen!

The Charm of Christmas

By Washington Irving

Of all the old festivals that of Christmas awakens the strongest and most heartfelt associations. There is a tone of solemn and sacred feeling that blends with our conviviality, and lifts the spirit to a state of hallowed and elevated enjoyment. The services of the church about this season are extremely tender and inspiring; they dwell on the beautiful story of the origin of our faith, and the pastoral scenes that accompanied its announcement; they gradually increase in fervor and pathos during the season of Advent, until they break forth in full jubilee on the morning that brought peace and good will to men. I do not know a grander effect of music on the moral feelings than to hear the full choir and the pealing organ performing a Christmas anthem in a cathedral, and filling every part of the vast pile with triumphant harmony.

It is a beautiful arrangement, also, derived from the days of yore, that this festival, which commemorates the announcement of the religion of peace and love, has been made the season for gathering together closer again those bands of kindred hearts, which the cares and pleasures and sorrows of the world are continually operating to cast loose; of calling back the children of a family, who have launched forth in life and wandered widely asunder, once more to assemble about the paternal hearth—that rallying place of the affections, there to grow young and loving again among mementos of childhood.

There is something in the very season of the year that gives a charm to the festivity of Christmas. At other times we derive a great portion of our pleasures from the mere beauties of nature. Our feelings rally forth and dissipate themselves over the sunny landscape, and we "live abroad and everywhere." The song of the bird, the murmur of the stream, the breathing fragrance of spring, the soft voluptuousness of summer, the golden pomp of autumn; earth, with its mantle of refreshing green, and heaven, with its deep, delicious blue and its cloudy magnificence, all fill us with mute but exquisite delight, and we revel in the luxury of mere sensation. But in the depth of winter, when nature lies despoiled of every charm and wrapped in her shroud of sheeted snow, we turn for our gratifications to moral sources. The dreariness and desolation of our landscape; the short, gloomy days and darksome nights, while they circumscribe our wanderings, shut in our feelings also from rambling abroad, and make us more keenly disposed for the pleasures of the social circle. Our thoughts are more concentrated; our friendly sympathies more aroused. We feel more sensibly the charm of each other's society, and are brought more closely together by dependence on each other for enjoyment. A season when heart calling unto heart.

The piteous glow without makes the heart dilate on entering the room filled with the glow and warmth of the evening fire. The ruddy blaze diffuses an artificial summer and sunshine through the room, and light up each countenance with a kindlier welcome. Where does the honest face of hospitality expand into a broader and more cordial smile—where is the shy glance of love more sweetly eloquent—than by the winter fireside? And, as the hollow blast of wintry wind rushes through the hall, clasps the distant door, whistles about the casement, and rumbles down the chimney, what can be more grateful than that feeling of sober and sheltered security with which we look around upon the comfortable chamber and the scene of domestic hilarity?

Amidst the general call to happiness, the bustle of the spirits, and air of the affections, which prevail at this period, what bosom can remain insensible? It is, indeed, the season of regenerate feeling—the season for kindling not merely the fire of hospitality in the hall, but the genial flame of charity in the heart.

Surely happiness is reflective, like the light of heaven; and every countenance, bright with smiles and glowing with innocent enjoyment, is a mirror transmitting to others the rays of a serene and ever-shining benevolence. He who can turn churlish away from contemplating the felicity of his fellow-beings, and can sit down darkling and repining in his loneliness when all around is joyful, may have moments of strong excitement and selfish gratification, but he wants the genial and social sympathies which constitute the charm of a merry Christmas.
